

WHAT CAN SOCIAL WORKERS DO TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE FOR LGBTQ+ YOUNG PEOPLE IN CARE? A COLLABORATIVE RESEARCH PROJECT

THE PROJECT

This research project aims to work collaboratively with LGBTQ+ people with lived experience of the care system to identify how social workers can make a difference for LGBTQ+ young people in care.

If you identify as LGBTQ+, have lived experienced of being in care, and are between 18-41 years of age, please get in touch to hear more about taking part!

CONTACT

To hear more about the project please contact me at:

Co-researchers will be entitled to a £20 Amazon voucher. Training regarding research methods will also be provided.

WHO AM I?

My name is Brittany Bernard. I am a Queer researcher, social worker and educator doing my doctorate. I am passionate about this topic and have been since I was a youth worker and statutory social worker.

COMMITMENT

This is a participatory research project, meaning we will decide together how to answer the research question and work collaboratively to collect and analyse our research data.

The time commitment will be approximately 4-8 sessions, totalling approximately 12-16 hours.
